We escaped Ultras

MARSEILLE NIGHTMARE: Danny Ion and Rebecca Clarke were forced to flee when Russians attacked English fans in the city

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A football fan from Northampton has revealed how he and his girlfriend were forced to 'run for their lives' when they were caught up in the violence in Marseille ahead of England's first Euro 2016 match against Russia.

Danny Ion, aged 23, and Rebecca Clarke, 22 - both Watford FC fans - were touring the French port city before the match last Saturday afternoon when an angry mob of Russian Ultras charged at England fans.

The couple were forced to desperately flee as the hooligans hurled glass bottles, threw chairs and punched and kicked English fans in their path.

"It was terrifying," Danny said. "Had we been any closer towards them we would have been caught in it and probably ended up being badly hurt."

Describing the events, he added: "We were just making our way towards my mates who were in a big group of England fans, when all of a sudden we could hear this loud, abusive chanting. "Then the next thing you know, bottles and chairs were being thrown towards us, and it was then when I grabbed Becky and we legged it. We feared for our lives at that point."

Despite escaping unharmed, Danny - who lives in Kingsthorpe - was left terrified by the events.

"It was horrific," he said. "We will never forget the distressing image of an England fan covered in blood and screaming in agony."

"We knew it was going to be lively, but nothing like it was."

Eddie backs EU in visit

Comedian Eddie Izzard was in the county yesterday for the Stand Up For Europe campaign.

He was at Corby Business Academy where he spoke to sixth formers about why he felt they should vote to stay in Europe on June 23.

The comic, who wants to become an MP or the Mayor of London, said: "Despair was the fuel of terrorists while hope was the fuel of civilisation."

"I believe in hope. We need to change the EU but from the inside not outside it. "We need to remain in Europe."

A Stunning Difference That You Can See And Feel

Before

Problem

The conservatory was too cold in the winter, meaning it has to be locked up over the cold months.

The conservatory was far too hot in the summer, making it impossible to stay in for more than a few minutes.

Heavy rain hitting the old panels caused unbearably loud noises during rainy weather spells.

On sunny days the sunlight would break through the thin panels, causing bright glare on the screens of electronic devices.

Mould and mildew had formed on the panels near the roof beams, needing to be regularly removed to avoid an unsightly view.

After

Solved

The conservatory now stays the same temperature as the rest of the house in the cold, making it perfect for a large family Christmas.

The conservatory now never goes above 24 degrees, keeping it nice and cool for children to play in during the summer.

A soundproof barrier now keeps the conservatory free from external noise, making it perfect for quiet relaxation, whatever the weather.

The new solid roof completely removes glare, while a white plaster or cladded ceiling still keeps the room bright for activities such as reading.

The Comfortable Tiled Conservatory Roof requires almost no maintenance allowing you to enjoy your conservatory with minimal effort.

Based On Your Score, Your Comfortable Prescription

0-24 Your conservatory is exhibiting little to no issues. It's possible that you already have one of our many options. If not, however, there's no harm in making a long term investment now to protect your conservatory in the future.

25-49 Your conservatory is starting to show it's flaws. We'd recommend looking into our insulated ceiling options. The insulated ceiling is a low cost, efficient solution to many common issues with existing conservatories.

50-74 Your conservatory is fairly problematic but we believe that a Comfortable Tiled Conservatory Roof will solve all of your problems. Our bespoke roofs fit on almost any existing conservatory and enhance it in countless ways.

75+ Your conservatory is barely usable, or possibly not usable at all, but we have the perfect solution. A full upgrade will strip your conservatory down to the base brickwork and replace all the frames, the roof, doors, and sealed units, making the structure as good as new.

What is your favourite spot in the world?

At the top of Table Mountain overlooking Cape Town. Give anything to go back.

What was the last thing you broke?

A can opener. I don't know why, but I absolutely cannot use them. I've broken three this year alone.

If Jess Kebbell was a drink what drink would she be?

A cosmopolitan, because an online quiz told me so.

What was the name of your teddy bear when you were a child?

Get ready for this. You will see my highly creative side come out - my teddy bear was named... Teddy

Txt 2 Txt this week is with Saints fan Jess Kebbell from Towcester - a third year law and criminology student at the University of Lincoln

What is your favourite sandwich?

I would put everything in - from tuna to coleslaw, with plenty of mayonnaise!

What is the one thing you have lost or broken which you want to get back?

My teddy bear called Teddy. My parents threw him away without my permission, I was mad. Very mad.

Which song makes you emotional or makes you cry?

Glory by Common and John Legend from the film Selma, gets me every time.

Who is the most famous person you have met face to face?

As famous as it gets for me is some Saints players whilst attending matches at Franklin's Gardens.

Editor's Letter

Could the Euro thugs tip the balance in the EU referendum?

How will the outbreak of hooliganism at Euro 2016 affect your voting intentions in the EU referendum?

It shouldn't affect them, of course it shouldn't. What a farce if it did.

The idea that a mob of beery barebellied baldies brawling could sway us when the wisdom of the great political minds of our age failed is too ludicrous to contemplate.

But there have been some stark images presented to us.

First of all comes what I shall call English Acknowledgement. Any discussion of international football violence comes with the disclaimer "of course English fans are no angels" even when they appear to be the targets of the violence.

Some aren't and some certainly haven't been, but the shame of it now belongs to all of us. They call football violence the English Disease.

How does that make you feel when we know that women and children were among English fans running scared and unprotected in the stadium in Marseilles? It's only a very small segment of all the fans of any nationality that actually fight, the vast majority are either trying to get away or watching.

It feels like they don't understand us in Europe. They think we are all drunken thugs...

But it feels like they don't understand us in Europe. They think we are all drunken thugs.

And they don't like us. The French police didn't really protect the English fans. They proved they were ready to fight us but they were literally a bit lost (ie not there) when they should have been defending family groups from Russian ultras.

I'm generalising of course but this is how dangerous the football violence could be to the idea we belong in a brotherhood with these countries, sorting out problems like this together.

It should have been a moment when Europe worked so well: easy travel, law and order without borders and a sense that you are as safe and valued abroad as you are at home.

That's just not the impression we have been given. What an own goal.

BY LAWRENCE JOHN

lawrence.john@hpnorthants.co.uk

It's not every day you see a 10 stone pet in a wheelbarrow but this is what happens at Animals in Need when Sherman needs to move around.

Sherman is a 15-year-old Sulcata tortoise who already weighs 10 stone and in the next 10 years will double his weight.

He eats vegetables, weeds, grass and hay.

Sherman munches his way through half a bale of hay a day and could devour half a family size lawn in a day.

He was given to Animals in Need in Little Irchester by an elderly couple who'd had him for 15 years and realising they were not able to look after him, wanted to make sure he went to a good home.

John Drake, who looks after the exotic animals at the shelter, said: "Sherman could live for 150 years and at the moment is only half grown.

"We will not be finding him a new home as we have decided he can live with us and we are currently building him a purpose built home.

"It costs a lot to have a tortoise like Sherman and the bills could be around £150 just to keep him warm and get his claws cut."

To help pay for Sherman's new shed, Animals in Need is holding an auction to raise much needed funds.

You can check it out on the Animals in Need Facebook page.

Ducklings rescued from storm drain

A quacking effort by a group of passersby saw a pair of ducklings rescued from a storm drain after they took a waddle on the wild side and got trapped inside.

The group of six men and women gathered outside the drain in Grange Park on Tuesday after spotting a distraught mother duck whose four ducklings had fallen down the drain.

The group managed to rescue two of the four but the remaining pair were stuck in a pipe in the drain, and couldn't be rescued.

The mum and her two saved ducklings - and two more which avoided the fall - were then taken to a nearby lake.

Cop crackdown

More than 150 drivers were breath tested in Northampton and Wellingborough last week and three were arrested. The action was part of Northants Police's summer drink and drug driving campaign which coincided with the start of Euro 2016.

Golden age for the music scene

Reporter Lawrence John speaks to author Derrick Thompson about 80s pop in Northampton

The history of Northampton's music scene gets another spin thanks to acclaimed county author Derrick Thompson.

Have Guitars... Will Travel volume three focuses on the 100 plus beat groups in Northampton during the 1980-87 period.

This third edition follows on from volume one 1957-1966 and volume two 1967-1979.

The new book, which is out tomorrow, highlights some of the national groups who visited the area for performances at pubs, clubs, dancehalls and theatres during the decade.

It turns the spotlight on the era when U2 appeared at the Deragate on January 29, 1981, The Smiths at the Dergate on March 29, 1985, New Order at The Roadmender on February 7, 1987, and Jerry Lewis, aka The Killer, at the Dergate on April 6, 1987.

There were also visits to the town by The Damned, The Cockney Rejects and Roy Orbison.

The 80s was an exciting period in the history of the music scene in Northampton.

Many local bands wrote their own material.

And instrumentally the age of bands having three guitars and drums had now been permanently enhanced.

One of the most famous Northampton bands to emerge during this period was Bauhaus who were big between 1980-85. After 1985 when the group split, three of the members formed Love and Rockets.

The live performance experience could still best be heard locally in pubs (especially The Black Lion) and working men's clubs, but now additionally bigger music venues like Nene College and The Roadmender came to prominence and were able to attract bands from throughout the country.

New Order came to the Roadmender on February 7, 1981, and wanted to test out a quadrophonic PA system.

POP MUSIC: Former lead singer with Mott the Hoople, Ian Hunter and Derrick Thompson

Derrick said: "They did not want a lot of publicity as they were not sure the new sound equipment would work. So a small advert was put up in the town centre and a fair crowd turned up. The sound worked really well and the band did a great set."

Other bands of note were

Antisect - an anarcho-punk band originating from Daventry, Trance - who were described as an aural equivalent of a Francis Bacon Screaming Pope, Antonin Artaud in a creative frenzy teetering on the edge of madness, a Samuel Beckett scream in a world of deaf blind mutes, and Accrington

Stanley, who began on New Year's Day 1980 and are still going strong today with their extensive Beatles and Eagles repertoires.

Derrick's book will be available for £19.95 at Waterstones and at Spiral Archive in St Michael's Road Northampton, plus on Amazon and eBay.

M1 business park given green light

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A planned flagship business park - which its developer claims could create 3,000 jobs - has been given the go ahead.

Hampton Brook has been given planning consent for the development of 1.78 million sq ft of industrial and distribution warehousing on 90.7 acres of land next to junction 16 of the M1.

The approval by South Northamptonshire Council, given at a meeting last Thursday evening, will see the scheme - called 'Midway J16' - deliver buildings in various sizes from 76,500 sq ft up to 870,000 sq ft near Kissingbury village.

Graham Stanton, managing director at Hampton Brook, said: "We are happy to have received planning permission for a new business park of this magnitude."

He added: "It is envisaged that Midway Park will go some way to relieving the latent demand for space from both existing and new occupiers which is currently unfulfilled."

"This in turn will 'boost' investment in the East Midlands and support local economic growth."

The news comes in the same week the developer of Silverstone Park released images of how it will expand the business estate next to the F1 Grand Prix circuit.

Construction work has already started on 14 new industrial units for high-tech engineering companies, totalling 125,000 sq ft.

The units are arranged as two self-contained buildings and two terraces and range in size from 5,000 sq ft to 25,000 sq ft.

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes - not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle."

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Northampton, Kettering, Wellingborough

& Corby areas and manager Trevor Skidmore agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise."

Cycling's elite ready to Tour

GEARED UP: Local girl Hannah Barnes will ride through Northants with 95 cyclists

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

Thousands of people will descend on Northamptonshire to watch some of the world's finest female athletes ride through the county in the final stage of the Women's Tour on Sunday.

Around 80,000 people will line the streets from Northampton to Kettering for the race, as it leaves Northampton's Guildhall at 10.45am and arrives in Kettering's High Street at 2pm.

All 16 teams - made up of a total of 96 cyclists - will wind their way through villages and towns in the county including Bugbrooke, Nether Heyford, Daventry and Desborough, during the 113.2km race.

And among the teams - including three which will represent Britain - will be the poster girl for the final stage, Hannah

Barnes, whose family lives in Burton Latimer.

The 23-year-old, who is in the CANYON//SRAM Racing team alongside defending champion Lisa Brennauer, said: "The last stage will be my favourite as it's close to a hometown stage for me! "I love coming back home to race.

"You get a buzz being on roads you know and having friends and family watching."

Among the high-profile cyclists will be former champions Lizzie Armitstead (Boels Dolmans - Netherlands) and Marianne Vos (Rabobank - Netherlands).

The cyclists will have to take on two sprints and two mountain climbs in the county - in Bugbrooke and Desborough and Newnham Hill and Naseby respectively - as they battle it out for the yellow leader's jersey.

Northampton's annual music festival will take place on the same day, and in Kettering there will be a range of inventive bikes for people to try - such as one which makes smoothies and another which controls Scalextric races.

Tour road closures:

DRAMATIC SCENES: The swirling winds caused minor damage, but fortunately nothing serious

Damaging mini tornado sweeps through town

This is the moment a mini tornado was spotted sweeping its way through a town as a weekend of wild weather came to a dramatic climax.

The funnel cloud bursting into a full-flowing mini-tornado was captured on camera on Sunday evening by shocked locals in Towcester. It was spotted in the South Northants town at around 6pm by photographer Nick Holder, who snapped it near the A43/A5 roundabout by the Tesco store.

He said the twister travelled through The Shires estate in the town, with some locals reporting garden equipment being knocked over by the swirling winds.

But it was at the town's Bell Plantation garden centre where the most damage was caused as a mini green-house was flattened, alongside plants.

The damage caused by the mini tornado, which ripped through the planting area of the centre, came at a cost of £600.

This was as bad as it got in the county before the weather event gave way to further torrential rain, thunder and lightning.

Man's body found in flat by officers

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

Shocked neighbours of a man found stabbed to death in his flat say he was 'vulnerable' and 'often kept himself to himself'.

Police officers discovered the body of David Miller, aged 56, in Patterdale Walk, Boothville, at 5am on Tuesday before launching a murder investigation.

Three men from Northampton aged 30, 49 and 57 and one woman from Northampton, aged 35, were then arrested on the same day on suspicion of murder.

A fifth person - a 27-year-old woman from Northampton - was also arrested on suspicion of assisting an offender.

All five remained in police custody when the H&P went to press. A team of forensic officers were still searching the block of flats on the evening of the discovery, and several bags of evidence were taken away.

A mobile welfare unit was also at the scene, while a police officer stood guard next to the police tape which has cordoned off the block of eight flats.

Neighbours told the H&P the man lived on his own, including a woman - who often visits a family member who lives nearby - who said: "It is a terrible shame - he was a vulnerable adult."

"I only knew him to say hello to in passing as he was my mum's neighbour."

"He was a gentle man who was always pleasant to me."

A post mortem has confirmed Mr Miller died of stab wounds. Anyone with information about the incident should contact police on 101.

Lover left boyfriend to die after bondage session

A man who left his gay lover to die when he suffered a fit following a bondage sex session was given an extended sentence of 13 years and nine months last Thursday after pleading guilty to manslaughter.

Thomas White, from

Wellingborough, was in a rage because shortly before his boyfriend Ashley Gillard - who used to work as a hairdresser in Northampton - had admitted he was HIV positive.

When 31-year-old Ashley - who was tied up - became ill due to the cocktail of drugs he had taken, White ignored his distress and left him to die in his flat in Milton Keynes.

Luton Crown Court heard he returned to the flat several days later and set fire to it to cover his tracks.

BLOGGER OF THE WEEK Three reasons to stay in

Prime Minister, David Cameron

This week's Blogger of the Week is the Prime Minister David Cameron, who is writing about why we should vote to remain in the EU in next week's referendum.

People in Northamptonshire are about to make a huge decision: should we stay in a reformed Europe, or leave for good?

My view – shared by the Labour Party, the Lib Dems, the Greens and a whole host of businesses large and small – is that we are stronger, safer and better-off in a reformed Europe.

But I know that many people are still wondering: how could the outcome really affect me and my family?

What difference does the EU make to my family and friends here in Northamptonshire?

Let me give you just three reasons why I believe the case for remaining is so powerful.

The first is stability for our country. If we remain, this cloud of economic uncertainty that hangs over our country will instantly lift.

Businesses in Northamptonshire can get back to hiring, investing and expanding.

Companies that export to the EU, like Opus Energy, will know for certain that our access to the single market of 500 million people will be secure; that they can sell their products in our biggest market without tariffs or restrictive rules.

The many smaller firms that supply exporting companies will keep their contracts.

And above all, businesses and families won't have to suffer a self-inflicted recession – caused by the economic shock that so many economists and expert organisations believe that leaving would cause.

We all remember what happens in recessions – lost jobs, lost livelihoods and restricted opportunities for young people. We don't need to risk it.

The second is the investment that Northamptonshire and the rest of the East Midlands receives from the EU.

This region has benefited from £2.2 billion of inward direct investment from EU countries in the last five years, supporting almost 120 foreign investment projects and over 9,000 jobs.

And there is almost £500 million being spent in the region – in places like Corby and Kettering – via EU development and social funds.

And there are hundreds of farms in Northamptonshire, and thousands more in the wider region, that are supported by EU agriculture payments.

Without these payments, more than a third of farms here would be unable to break even.

This is all money that simply can't be guaranteed if we were to leave. There would be nothing to stop a future government ending it completely. And let's remember: leaving the EU would mean we'd have less money to go around because of the economic shock we'd suffer.

That brings me to the third reason: public services. With the hard work of the British people, the public finances are being rebuilt.

We're on course for a surplus – Britain back in the black. But according to the Institute for Fiscal Studies – one of the most respected economic organisations in our country – leaving the EU would create a black hole in the public finances of between £20 billion and £40 billion.

So instead of austerity coming to an end, leaving the EU would mean it would have to carry on.

Faced with that sort of challenge, I'm afraid it could well be the largest areas of public spending, such as pensions and the NHS, which could have to be cut to make up the shortfall.

So the choice is clear: a vote to leave is a vote for risk, instability, less investment and more austerity. It will affect every family and business in Northamptonshire. And what would it all be for in the end?

I don't believe we've heard anything that would justify such a risky course.

It is a leap in the dark. But a vote to remain is a vote for more jobs, more investment, stability for our country and more opportunities for young people. I say: let's choose that future.

Let's think about the future prospects of our children and grandchildren.

And let's vote to remain on June 23rd.

Selling NH1 will not work

Last week we reported that the mayor of Northampton's number plate is now worth £300,000. One campaigner pleaded with the council to sell it to help save Shopmobility, which is planning to close due to a cut in funding. Here's how our readers reacted:

MARK HIGGERSON: Selling off valuable articles is only ever a short term solution to financial problems!

CHRIS LAMBERT: It might be worth £250 - £300k but they have got to find someone to pay that. Then they need to sell it before September.

He must have at least one of his camera's where ever he goes. He said: "Incase I come across the air ambulance anyway, my photos help spread the awareness of the charity. I take photos of other volunteers to capture the fun to try and encourage more volunteers as we are desperate for them in this county."

Big mission in night car

MILESTONE: The air ambulance service carried out its 25,000th mission by car

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

The air ambulance which covers Warwickshire and Northamptonshire has completed its 25,000th mission.

An emergency call out last Thursday night to Northamptonshire marked the huge milestone in the charity's history.

The Critical Care Team carried out the mission by road in the service's new night car, rather than by helicopter.

It followed a request from East Midlands Ambulance Service (EMAS) after a report of a man who suffered a collapse at his home in Burton Latimer.

The crew arrived at 8.56pm and assisted EMAS. They then went in the back of the land ambulance with the crew to take the man to Kettering General Hospital where they arrived at 9.15pm.

The 25,000th mission is a combined total for call outs by Warwickshire & Northamptonshire Air Ambulance and its sister service Derbyshire, Leicestershire & Rutland Air Ambulance.

Director of operations Richard Clayton thanked the charity's supporters for their help over the years.

He said: "It's a remarkable achievement for a service that only launched in 2003, receives no government funding and relies on support from local communities to keep flying."

Town fan's horror at Euro violence

nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A Cobblers fan has described the terrifying moment he saw hundreds of England fans running for their lives as they came under attack by Russian supporters inside the stadium after England's Euro 2016 draw with Russia.

Chris Evans, a 36-year-old season ticket holder at Sixfields stadium, had watched the Three Lions lose out on all three points in their opening match at the Stade Vélodrome last Saturday, after Russia's last-gasp goal made it 1-1.

But when the final whistle was blown, dramatic scenes erupted yet again in the French city of Marseille - only this time inside the stadium as Russian fans broke through the security cordon and charged at their English counterparts.

Many wore balaclavas as they ripped down England flags, punched and kicked supporters - and even forced some to hurl themselves over railings in a desperate attempt to escape the violence.

A horrified Chris, of Yardley Gobion, in South Northants, was sat in the opposite end of the stadium as he witnessed the scenes unfold.

He said: "I could then see the opposite corner turning white.

"I suddenly realised that England fans were running away, as some of the Russians had got over the barrier and were trying to attack them.

"I saw people scaling the metal barriers to try and escape. It was hideous. Stewards just stood there powerless."

During the match itself, Russian fans let off fireworks and smoke bombs - which raised questions over the security - especially so, following the terror attacks in Paris earlier this year.

Chris said: "The security checks were the most concerning part. They just had a quick peek in fans' bags and gave them a quick pat down. It could have been much worse than fireworks. All it takes is a cloth at the bottom of your bag to conceal something much worse."

The case of... Gareth Bale and his mates at Euro 2016

Lawrence John

@LawrenceJohnHP

Willy Wonka hid five golden tickets in his bars of chocolate.

The scramble to get such a ticket reached fever pitch as everyone wanted to get their hands on one. If they did get a ticket they were to use a football cliché 'over the moon'.

This is what it is like to be a Welsh football fan right now. We have a golden ticket and we are at Euro 2016 - this is 'unbelievable Jeff'.

This is just like winning the Grand National, Wimbledon, the FA Cup, the Champions League and having your birthday and Christmas all on the same day.

Wales have waited 58 years to reach the football party but now we have we are loving every minute.

I think we even have the best team song. We didn't get just anybody, no we got The Manic Street Preachers, who recorded the official anthem for Wales' appearance at Euro 2016, Together Stronger (C'mon Wales).

In 1958 at the World Cup we had the then Juventus striker John Charles in our team, in 2016 we have the Real Madrid attacking midfielder, Gareth Bale in our team.

Wales have come to a party we never expected to get to.

We reached it through grit, determination, hard work, team work, winning football matches and Bale.

Anything the team achieve is done thanks to him.

He is the team's inspiration and the fans' hero.

He needs the fans just as much as he needs his teammates. It is a case of 'in Bale we trust'.

Today, Wales play England in Lens.

Wales are the underdogs, but that is fine with us.

I think we were always going to be.

I want Wales to play well and to go as far as they can in the tournament.

How well Wales do depends on Bale and his mates as this is a summer holiday we have never been on before.

Like the lyrics of Summer Holiday says: 'Everybody has a summer holiday.

'Doing things they always wanted to. So we're going on a summer holiday.

'To make our dreams come true'.

I hope Wales have a great summer holiday in France.

Traffic plan aiming

BY LAWRENCE JOHN

lawrence.john@hpnorthants.co.uk

Twice a day, every day, during rush hour, roads leading in and out of Northamptonshire grind to a halt.

Drivers expect delays and leave early to try to get into the office on time.

The problem is everyone has the same idea so rush hour starts earlier and earlier.

Combine the additional cars doing the school run which add 160,000 to the county's roads with all the other traffic, and things grind to a halt and congestion is the headache for all drivers.

How can this be stopped? A team from the University of Northampton and Northamptonshire County Council are working together to help transform the provision of public and community transport across the county.

The two institutions, working with partners, will be mapping out how people travel around the county – and then come up with solutions to make transport provision better co-ordinated, integrated and help the public pound go further.

One of the people involved is Liam Fassam, senior lecturer in supply chain management at the University of Northampton's business and economics department.

He said: "At the moment it is complete congestion. The county council has 1,000 new school applications per month and the infrastructure cannot cope with what is happening. Building new roads is not the answer.

"We need to use technology to help us and review the current infrastructure.

"What this project is doing is looking at the way people travel in the county. We are taking a holistic approach by looking at everything to see how people move around and what modes of transport they use.

"We need to look at everything like school transport and how people get to hospital appointments.

"If we do not they will continue to get two incredible pinchpoints at the start and the end when people try to get home.

"Part of the project I am looking at is ITS - Integrated Transport System. In the Kingsthorpe corridor we cannot widen the road as there needs to be footpaths for people to walk. What the EU uses in some cities is smart technology.

"This allows drivers to be made aware of traffic jams and diverts lorries one way and cars the other. Better technology would improve pinchpoints like Kingsthorpe.

"Smart technology with everyone driving slower would help. It means no one would rush to one point and cause congestion. If you speed up transport it tends to rush. If you improve a roundabout making it faster then drivers race to the next point and the delays here are doubled then increase times two each time.

"A constant speed while slower would in the end be faster.

"What also needs to be looked at is changing the way we work. In Germany, many people start work at 7am so they have different shift patterns. In this country we seem fixed on 9am -5pm so twice a day there is congestion. Do schools start at the right time? Does this need to change? All this needs to be reviewed."

Mr Fassam said one of the aims of the study was to better connect commuters and give them a better travel experience by using new technology. This he explained could be using apps on their mobile phones to do away with paper tickets so they could travel on a bus and train without any paper or money.

He added: "At the moment there is a lack of connectivity. You can use buses using your phone but not trains. You still have to queue up and buy a ticket which wastes time. There are other forms of transport like e-bikes or electric cars which would make a big difference.

"In London one pizza company says its delivering pizza between point A and B and gives lifts to people who need to get somewhere on the same route. It is all about integrated transport.

"In Milton Keynes people will soon see driverless cars taking people everywhere. In the future we could live in a world where no one owns a car but dials up for a pod car to collect them and take them where they want."

A Northampton fundraising team showed they're anything but stick in the muds when they took on a run with a difference for charity.

The team of four, from Tripod Crest, pushed themselves to the limit to complete Tough Mudder – a notoriously difficult obstacle race – and raise almost £2,000 for Cancer Research UK.

Together they negotiated hill climbs, rope climbs, zip wires, pools of water and lots of mud before crossing the finish line.

So far their exploits have raised £1,795.00.

What do you do on the longest day?

Once you have done something (like I did London to Paris on a bike, did I mention that?) you are faced with the question: am I done doing things?

And if the answer is no then you have to ask yourself – what next?

First up is the Solstice 100 which I attempted last year.

It's Northampton's very own mountain bike sportive that starts at the Pomfret Arms and wends its way through South Northants as off-road as mtb-epics' Vince Major can make it.

I enjoyed failing to complete it so much last year that I am doing it again, only this time with a bit more wisdom and humility, a new bike and on the 50 mile version of the course.

The 100 miler is still there and last year attracted well over 50 riders for the inaugural event.

This year's route takes mountain bikers

H&P Editor Steve Scoles on his quest for fitness and health helped by Trilogy Gym through the familiar territory of Harlestone Firs and on tracks near Gayton and Weedon. The full route will be published any day now.

I'm expecting to spend over five hours doing the 50.

Search for MTB epics UK on Facebook for details on last minute entry.

In other news I hear that Trilogy are offering a reintroduction to tennis for middle aged men at Abington on Thursday evenings... sounds interesting.

A peep into a miniature post-riot village

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A post-riot miniature village which attracted thousands of visitors to Banksy's Dismaland last summer pulled into a car park in Northampton last Thursday as part of its tour across Britain.

The art installation, called Aftermath Dislocation Principle and created by artist Jimmy Cauty, pitched up in the morning hidden inside a 40ft shipping container outside the Super Sausage Cafe.

It depicts a village which has been hit by a disaster, possibly a catastrophic riot, where only the police and media remain in an otherwise deserted, wrecked and dislocated land.

And as a further twist to the landscape, it can only be viewed through peepholes drilled into the side of the container - which has been daubed in graffiti by the thousands of visitors who have seen it.

Northampton was chosen as a stopover for the artwork as it was one of the places where a riot has taken place - namely the Bradlaugh Riots in the Market Square in 1874 where fans of radical atheist Charles Bradlaugh believed an election had been rigged.

Among the dozens of visitors

ONE-OFF EVENT: The art installation pitched up outside the Super Sausage Cafe for one - giving people the chance to look into a world which Alan Moore (right) fears could become a reality outside the cafe in Spring Boroughs, behind Northampton Railway Station, was author Alan Moore - famous for his novels Watchmen and V for Vendetta.

Moore, who is a Spring Boroughs resident himself, was left so amazed by the installation that he told the Northants Herald & Post it was one of the best he had ever seen.

"This is up there among the best, without a doubt," he said. "This is a brilliant expression of modern England. I think that it is a really brave piece of work and a really serious piece of art."

"I think that this says more about our current situation than any amount of the tepid conceptual art in the Saatchi collection, which doesn't speak to me at all."

Moore said he felt the 1:84 scale installation, which is 'set in the near future' and shows no sign of the general population - except 3,000 riot police - is a 'glimpse of our potentially ugly future'.

"What Jimmy's installation shows is a very credible, possible outcome for the real world that we live in," Moore added. "This is irrespective of whether we stay in Europe or get out - these are not the big issues."

"The biggest issues are that we have an environmental crisis that is getting worse - the longer we continue to do nothing about it. We have a global crisis where you've got post-national movements like ISIS which are arising from our very complex global situation."

"We have a world that is changing around us more rapidly than any others can keep up with."

"There is a very strong sense that the people in control in the world, the people in control of the money, that their main programme is to accumulate more money at whatever cost."

"So in a situation like that, which seems to be insistent upon propagating itself, then that will inevitably end up in a situation like this - which Cauty has depicted perfectly."

Town comes out to celebrate carnival

BY STEVE SCOLES
news@hpnorthants.co.uk

The sights and sounds of five continents came together to bring carnival to the streets of Northampton.

Floats assembled at the Racecourse this year and set off at 2pm on a route that took them through the town centre and along Wellingborough and Kettering roads.

They arrived back at the Racecourse two hours later after being cheered from the roadside by thousands of Northampton residents.

Abington Street and Guildhall Road were lined with onlookers as spectacular costumes and dancers shimmied past among floats representing various organisations from the BBC to the Air Ambulance.

Mystic Crew headlined on the stage set up at the White Elephant end of the Racecourse where there was also a funfair and stalls.

PROPERTY TALK

>with NIGEL LEWIS

Harris's home before Dumbledore

RICHARD Harris turned down the role of Professor Albus Dumbledore in the first Harry Potter film in 2001, but his 11-year-old granddaughter begged him to reconsider, threatening never to talk to him again if he refused the role.

One of the last century's hell-raising actors he died a year later, but appearing at Hogwarts introduced Harris to a new generation of fans. He'd not enjoyed cinematic success for a while, but at the height of his stardom in the 1960s and early 1970s, Harris was as well known for his drunken brawls, bankruptcies, divorces and philanderings as his acting.

A touring production of Camelot, with the actor as King Arthur, grossed £46m for the theatre company he ran, making him very rich. So rich that he even left a Rolls-Royce Phantom Five in a garage in New York for 25 years because he'd forgotten he owned it – at a cost of about $400 a week.

Harris was a canny property investor though, shelling out on homes around the world, including the Tower House in Holland Park for £75,000 in 1969 which he then sold to Led Zeppelin guitarist Jimmy Page – who still lives there – a few years later.

He also once owned this Grade II listed six-bedroom cottage overlooking Warmington village green in The Cotswolds. With walled gardens and courtyard, Harbages Farmhouse has got stacks of period features including a flagstone floor, window seats, large Inglenook fireplaces with wood burning stoves, bread oven and exposed timbers. It's on the market for £1.095m.

Perfect place for a Burns night?

ICONIC Scottish poet Robert Burns is so well loved around the world that there are more statues of him than any other non-religious figure, after Queen Victoria and Christopher Columbus.

The bard penned Auld Land Syne and inspired the millions of Burns Suppers that take place around the world every year, held in his honour ever since his early death.

When he wasn't busy putting pen to paper he had a pretty busy schedule of hard drinking and womanising, fathering 12 children with four different mothers. A farmer's son born in Alloway, South Ayrshire in 1759, Burns found fame as a poet at 27 but despite inheriting his father's farm, soon got into financial difficulties and had made two women pregnant.

He married and swapped farming for full-time employment as an excise officer, but the steady income gave him the funds to drink heavily and he died, aged 37, of rheumatic fever after collapsing drunk by the roadside in the pouring rain.

He often stayed here – once The King's Arms Inn – when on business in Kirkcudbright. Now a five-bedroom family home with large dining kitchen, it's even got some of the poet's graffiti on a wall which decorators found in the 1920s: 'When January winds were blawin' cauld... (Kirkcudbright?) I took my way but mirksome night did me enfauld...till earliest day' and is signed, R Burns.

The poet's admirers might find even more inspiration in the Georgian townhouse which is up for sale at £540,000.

Where Daniel lived for a spell

JK Rowling has urged her loyal fan-base not to spill the beans on the action in her much-anticipated stage show. She's asked her Twitter followers to keep the plot of Harry Potter and the Cursed Child to themselves and allow future audiences to enjoy the new play, which previewed in the West End last week.

The eighth story in the Harry Potter story picks up 19 years after Lord Voldemort was vanquished. However, fans who weren't quick off the mark when tickets went on sale will have to wait until early 2017 to get their fix. The show even managed to set a West End record when it sold 175,000 tickets in 24 hours.

Former boy wizard Daniel Radcliffe isn't in the new production – he's been busy making movies recently, with his last screen outing as a flatulent corpse in Swiss Army Man. Big film roles have helped the former child actor grow a £60m fortune and a hefty property portfolio; he's known to have at least three Big Apple apartments under his belt.

Radcliffe grew up at this four-bedroom house in Sherbrooke Road, Fulham, and was reportedly in the bath when he found out he'd won the role of Harry. Despite having a cupboard under the

Where Joan watched Gracie sing

WHEN 'Our Gracie' turned up to open a cinema, she pulled in a crowd of almost 10,000 fans, and photos of the crush made the next day's Daily Mirror.

A musical superstar in the 1930s, Gracie Fields was a top box-office draw and the highest paid actress in Britain.

According to the Kentish Mercury, Fields – who went onto become a popular forces entertainer – described the new Greenwich Granada Theatre as “proper posh” and then said in a rich Lancashire accent: “Well, I don't suppose you want to hear me talking, you want to hear me sing. Shove a piano on the stage, lads!”

Actress Joan Collins loved the Saturday morning pictures and joined the Greenwich Granadier's club for children. Living nearby at the time, she recalled the opening night in 1937: “The whole Granada building was dark and I was sitting on my father's shoulder... all of a sudden, all of the outside lights went on.

“Everybody cheered and screamed and clapped... and then Gracie Fields came and sang some of her popular songs. It was very special.”

With 1,924 seats, a stage and Wurlitzer organ, films at The Granada fell out of favour during the 20th century and it closed in the late 1960s, becoming a bingo hall and then a nightclub before being completely redeveloped as 39 flats about a decade ago.

This modern three bedroom, first floor apartment in the former cinema has a large lounge with floor to ceiling windows, open plan kitchen and three bathrooms. It's on the market for £1.55m.

Wouldn't this house be... lovely?

AUDREY Hepburn beat Julie Andrews to the film role of Eliza Doolittle in My Fair Lady – despite the English actress's success playing the part on Broadway. However, losing out meant she could star in Mary Poppins – and Andrews went on to win an Oscar.

Hepburn looked the part but had to have her songs dubbed by another singer, unlike Rex Harrison who, as Henry Higgins, gave the aitch-dropping Cockney flower girl speech lessons so she could pass as a lady.

Based on George Bernard Shaw's Pygmalion, the fictional fiery yet eccentric phonetics professor is said to have been based partly on Henry Sweet, an Oxford phonetics teacher.

Meanwhile, Higgins's home and grand lifestyle were inspired by Horace Hayman Wilson, Boden Professor of Sanskrit at Oxford University in the early 19th century. A linguistics expert with one foot in academia and the other in London high society, Wilson's former 10-bedroom mansion in London's Upper Wimpole Street is now on the market for £14.95m.

The grand Grade II listed six-storey late-Georgian townhouse was built in 1787 and still has the air of grand consulting rooms about it, with high-ceilinged reception rooms and a 16-seat formal dining room with wall panelling, Corinthian columns and sash windows.

The period property is full of ornate ceiling mouldings and cornices, marble flooring and Georgian fireplaces, with a large study/library and two patio gardens. There's also a two-bedroom mews house at the end of the garden.

Sorcery and chivalry mixed in the Tempest

Royal & Derngate's final tribute to William Shakespeare, in this 400th anniversary year, is his last masterpiece The Tempest, which takes to the stage from June 23 to July 2 in a Made in Northampton co-production with the National Youth Theatre.

Set on a remote island of villains, lovers, fools and outcasts, The Tempest is a tale of enlightenment and forgiveness. Conjuring up a supernatural world of sorcery, savagery, shipwrecks and chivalry, Shakespeare's late play is the bard at his most mystical and audacious.

Shakespeare's magical story of growing up and growing old will be performed by the next generation of talent – an 18-strong ensemble of 18 to 25 year olds that brings together the most promising young actors from across Northamptonshire and the UK.

This vibrant new version is an adaptation by Rebecca Lenkiewicz.

Evening performances are at 7.45pm (7pm on June 28) and matinees at 2.30pm on Saturdays and June 30.

Tickets for The Tempest are £16 and can be booked by calling the box office on 01604 624811 or online at www.royalandderngate.co.uk

Method to the Madness of Jerry Lewis

Sometimes we only see one of the many faces of a comedian and we think we know them or know their work. It is understandable as what we see on television either in programmes or on documentaries does colour our vision of the comic. This would have been true in my appreciation of Jerry Lewis. But thanks to YouTube I started to see a different side to Jerry Lewis but also his work by seeing him in shows I had never seen before in my life. After watching Method to the Madness of Jerry Lewis made in 2011 which I found on YouTube, I saw a new Jerry Lewis which allows you as the viewer to be fully rounded in understanding his career and appreciate the many different aspects and facets of his comedy. What I learnt from this documentary was how much of an innovator Lewis was as a comic, how he was driven by what he wanted to do and aimed to do the best he could. At the end I would have to say Jerry Lewis is the King of Comedy.

Jaguar success not fleeting

BY ALISTAIR COULL

PINNING its hopes on the fleet market for another bumper year in 2016 looks like it is paying off for Jaguar Land Rover.

The company's UK managing director Jeremy Hicks is looking forward to another record breaking year and reckons the company's main growth will come in the fleet market.

Fleet sales grew by 84 per cent in the first three months of 2016 compared to the first quarter in 2015, as the XE, XF, Evoque and Discovery Sport models all posted rapid fleet sales growth - evidence of Jaguar Land Rover's commitment to ensure 25 per cent of its global sales will be to fleet and business customers by 2020.

With the introduction of business-friendly models, including the XE and XF with CO2 from as low as 99g/km, Jaguar UK saw fleet sales grow by 194 per cent from Q1 2015 to Q1 2016.

Land Rover UK's performance so far this year was so strong that one-in-three fleet cars sold in sectors the brand competes in was a Land Rover.

Mr Hicks said: "Our fleet and business results for 2015 are fantastic and prove we have an effective formula in place; we have desirable and sector appropriate cars, efficient Ingenium engines and class-leading total cost of ownership - together, these factors deliver a compelling proposition for fleet managers to add Jaguar Land Rover to their fleet lists.

"With this formula in mind, and with an ever expanding range of stunning Jaguar and Land Rover vehicles on the horizon, I'm confident that there's plenty more fleet growth to come."

All of Jaguar Land Rover's key fleet models - the XE, XF Evoque and Discovery Sport - grew their share of the fleet sector more than any of their rivals when comparing the whole of 2015.

The Range Rover Evoque is the star performer in 2016 so far, out-selling all of its premium rivals with 18.3 per cent of fleet sales.

Fleet sales for 2016 are already on track to be the best yet, with a full-year of Ingenium-powered XE and XF sales, and the arrival of Evoque Convertible and F-PACE.

Already the best-selling Jaguar ever, one-in-six F-PACE sales is predicted to go to the fleet sector.

Ford Transit Eco Blue

Take a look inside. . .

BY CHRIS RUSSON

A TRANSIT van rated at more than 45 to the gallon will be on the road by the autumn heralding the introduction of a new generation of diesel engines from Ford.

Made in Britain and the product of more than £400m worth of investment, the EcoBlue diesel is not only mean but lean.

In the two tonne Transit, Ford is claiming an official fuel return on 40.9mpg with emissions of 182g/km while in the lighter Transit Custom the new engine is classified at 46.3mpg, taking its CO2 figure down to 157g/km.

As such the new breed of Transit becomes one of the most economical vans on the market and the EcoBlue has been designed to out-perform the 2.2-litre engine Ford has used since the current van was launched in 2012.

The EcoBlue engine meets all Euro 6 emissions standards and while it is making its debut in the Transit it will feature heavily in all of Ford's future diesel models – and that includes cars, MPVs and SUVs.

To complement the new eco image, Ford is also introducing a range of technology as well as tweaking its handling to improve the ride. Among the options is rear air suspension which is on top of the Transit's electronic stability systems to counter heavy loads. Ford says the changes are designed to make the Transit as comfortable and refined as a family car.

Cabin noise has been reduced significantly, there's more feel through the steering and the enhancements to the ride quality are very noticeable.

The result is much more composure on the road and the latest Transit has to be one of the easiest vans to drive.

Other techie systems include crosswind stability control which reduces the effect of buffet from other vehicles or sideways gusts at speeds above 50mph and lane departure warnings, road sign recognition and a six-inch touchscreen for the sat nav.

Ford's SYNC voice control and connectivity system has also been installed, as has automatic cruise control.

Prices for the range – which will be distinguished from the previous models by a silver strip across the front – will start from £20,075 for the short wheelbase 250 model with the 105bhp engine up to £28,425 for the 170bhp version fitted to the flagship Sportvan.

Abarth sets price for new roadster By: Mike Torpey

THE new Abarth 124 spider will cost from £29,565 when it arrives later this summer.

That tab is for the 1.4 TJet 170bhp manual version of the two-seater roadster which marks the return of the spider badge to Abarth and is the natural heir of the original model launched in 1972.

Equipped with a four-cylinder MultiAir Turbo engine, the newcomer can blast from 0-62mph in 6.8 seconds and has a top speed of 143mph.

And as the sound of the engine really matters in an Abarth, the Record Monza exhaust comes as standard.

The spider is available with a six-speed manual or the automatic Sequenziale Sportivo gearbox, the latter with steering wheel-mounted paddle shifts.

Abarth says each car is tested and certified by one of the company's own technicians, who applies a metal plaque showing the sequential number of each car – so it's a unique number for every customer.

Five body colours are up for grabs and standard equipment includes climate control, cruise control, electrically-folding door mirrors and 7-inch colour infotainment set-up DAB radio, MP3 player, two USB ports, AUX input and Bluetooth. There is also a stereo with four speakers while, for superior sound quality, a Bose premium sound system with nine speakers, including dual headrest speakers on both seats and a subwoofer, is available as an option along with sat-nav. Full pricing sees the Abarth 124 spider 1.4 TJet 170bhp manual costing £29,565, with an extra £2,040 for automatic.

Smooth cruising for Isuzu D-Max By: Ian Johnson

If you drive a pick-up there is sometimes a difficult choice to make.

Do you require ride comfort or load carrying capacity? Not qualities that have, up to now, often sat easily alongside each other. The fact is that one usually compromises the other, which does not help many who use these vehicles as everyday and sometimes long distance personal transport.

This is no longer the case for drivers of any double-cab Isuzu D-Max.

The new Pedders D-Max TrakRyder Lift Kit takes the strain out of the suspension set-up, promising an enhanced ride quality whether the D-Max is fully laden or empty and regardless of the type of road surface.

This system takes any double-cab D-Max to the next level of comfort, ride quality and stability. It is applicable to the Blade, Eiger, Fury, Utah and Yukon in the premium D-Max range and double-cab pick-up in the utility range.

This suspension kit gives the best of both worlds as it equips the D-Max as both a workhorse and a family utility vehicle.

The Pedders system does this by introducing a variable leaf spring design that gives spring and shock absorber rates capable of handling increased ground clearance, increased suspension travel whilst enhancing vehicle stability.

It increases the ride height by 35mm to 40mm, enabling the vehicle to cover rough ground as well as increasing the approach and departure angles of the pick-up when traversing extreme angles on undulating off-road terrain.

With the kit intended for use on and off-road driving, including general commuting, the upgrade also makes towing more comfortable, when drivers are exploiting the D-Max's class-leading 3.5-tonne towing capacity.

No modifications to the Isuzu D-Max are required in order to fit the suspension kit, which is easy to fit, minimising the labour time needed for installation.

The Pedders D-Max TrakRyder Lift Kit is available supplied and fitted at your local Isuzu dealer for £1,357.15 (excluding VAT).

PEUGEOT SERVES UP A SPECIAL TRIO By: Mike Torpey

PEUGEOT has raised the net on its own doubles pairing in the wake of the French Open tennis championships.

Two special Roland Garros editions of the popular 108 city car and 208 supermini will hit the streets later this month, along with a sporty new GT Line trim grade for the 108 range.

The 108 TOP! and 208 Roland Garros editions salute the famous Paris venue that hosts the tournament which Peugeot has supported for some 32 years.

Both models are positioned above the Allure trim grade and feature a high level of standard equipment with exclusive features.

The 108 TOP! Roland Garros is available as a three or five-door variant with a 1.2-litre PureTech 82 petrol engine.

Painted in Diamond White with a retractable black fabric hood, orange door mirrors and 15-inch alloy wheels with orange centre caps, the car comes with tinted rear and side windows, LED daytime running lights and Roland Garros badging.

Buyers also get sat-nav, air-con, electric/heated door mirrors, a reversing camera and the company's Open & Go keyless entry. Prices are from £13,360.

Meanwhile, the 208 Roland Garros comes as a five-door model with three engine/gearbox combinations.

The 1.2 PureTech 110 petrol engine is available with a five speed manual or six speed automatic gearbox for £17,965 and £18,965 respectively, while the 1.6L BlueHDi 100 diesel costs from £18,915 with a five speed manual gearbox.

All three have low CO2 emissions at 99g/km, 104g/km and 90g/km.

The 208 Roland Garros is available in either Nera Black or Satin White paintwork with 16-inch alloys, tinted rear windows, daytime LED running lights, orange mirrors and exclusive badging.

A panoramic glass roof, leather two-tone seats with orange contrast stitching, leather steering wheel, DAB digital radio, sat-nav and multi-function touchscreen are also part of a comprehensive package.

The introduction of the new 108 GT Line follows its popularity on the 208, 308 and 508 models, with the 308 GT Line versions accounting for nearly 20 per cent of the range.

TWINGO GT SET FOR FESTIVAL FLING

By: Mike Torpey

RENAULT will unveil a hot version of its small city car the Twingo at the Goodwood Festival of Speed from June 23-26.

The Twingo GT will boast 110bhp from its tuned engine, a revised manual gearbox and rear-wheel drive.

A sporty new look, stiffened suspension and variable-rate steering means the car will feature sharp handling, responsive steering feedback and excellent road-holding, a performance-orientated package unprecedented in the small city car sector.

The Twingo GT will not be available in the UK until this winter, meaning the car's global unveil on June 23 will be the first time it has been seen in the metal.

Renault will also give the new Megane Sport Tourer GT205 its first UK airing at the Moving Motor Show at Goodwood the same day.

MERCEDES ESTATE'S A CLASS APART By: Mike Torpey

THE estate version of the new sixth generation Mercedes-Benz E-Class is being hailed as the most intelligent estate model the premium brand has ever built.

The car, due to be served up at the Mercedes Cup tennis tournament in Stuttgart, boasts a cargo volume of up to 1,820 litres and despite a much sportier roofline than before, headroom and elbow room in the rear are claimed to be the best in class.

And later this year the estate will be available with a third, folding bench seat for children.

For the UK market launch, the new estate will be available as an E 220 d featuring a newly developed four-cylinder diesel engine producing 194bhp.

In the fourth quarter of this year, the E 350 d will follow, which has a six-cylinder diesel engine, and all models will come equipped as standard with the new 9G-TRONIC nine-speed automatic transmission

STYLE AND SOPHISTICATION FROM AUDI A5 By: Mike Topey

AUDI has lifted the wraps on its new generation A5 Coupe complete with a slick new style and the promise of more sophistication.

The car's flowing bodywork has been aerodynamically optimised to deliver a drag coefficient of just 0.25, while beneath the skin is a new platform that reduces weight by up to 60kg over its predecessor.

A range of powerful TDI and TFSI engines and an even more advanced suite of infotainment and driver assistance systems will be included when the newcomer hits UK streets this winter.

Compared with the previous model, the list of standard equipment is more generous and includes stuff like xenon headlights with LED daytime running lights and LED rear lights, LED interior lights, Audi MMI radio plus with 7-inch colour display, Bluetooth and USB charging function.

You also get the Audi drive select dynamic handling system and Audi pre sense city.

Meanwhile, the new two-door S5 Coupe gets a newly developed turbocharged V6 engine producing 354PS and capable of 0-62 in 4.7 seconds.

Northampton Revell-ing after signing new striker

BY MATT WRIGHT
sport@snmedia.co.uk

New signing Alex Revell says he chose Northampton Town over the host of other sides chasing his signature because they give the same feeling as a previous club where he won back-to-back promotions.

Revell turned down the chance to remain with MK Dons, where he finished last season, or work with former Cobblers boss Chris Wilder at Sheffield United to join Northampton on a two-year contract.

Under manager Rob Page, Town are aiming to maintain the momentum gained from winning the League Two title last season and are setting their sights on more than just survival.

Revell has plenty of experience to draw upon, including helping Rotherham United win promotion to the Championship at the first attempt in the 2013/14 season by scoring twice in their play-off final victory over Leyton Orient at Wembley.

When asked what made him decide to join Northampton, Revell said: "There has been [interest from other clubs], but the manager was one of the main reasons.

"When I met him I really got on great with him and to be honest, he didn't need to sell the club. His drive and what he wants to do here was a big aspect of why I wanted to come.

"When I joined Rotherham, it had a similar feeling to this; momentum and, obviously the manager was different at the time, but someone who believed that this club could go places.

"For me, I've got that same feeling personally, so I want to be a part of that again because I've had a year of difficult times, but it's made me learn, it's made me appreciate playing games, being

MAN IN DEMAND: Alex Revell turned down plenty of other offers to join Northampton Town on Tuesday at a club and actually enjoying yourself.

"I want to get down to business, I want to play again and I want to add to what already is a great, talented squad that took League Two by storm last year."

Revell's arrival gives Northampton just the sort of depth they needed up front after the departures of loanees James Collins and John Marquis (the latter joined Doncaster Rovers this week).

Wilder preferred to have one centre forward leading the line last season, often Marc Richards, but Revell is hoping he'll be used in tandem with the Cobblers' captain under Page.

He said: "I think he's excellent. For me personally, there's no point in joining a club where you're the only person in that position.

"Realistically, you've got to play well to stay in the team and that's the most important thing as a player.

"You've just got to keep going and with a player of Marc's ability, for me personally it's a challenge. Hopefully we could play together – that would be nice, but we'll see.

"I've got to come here and do what I know I can and hopefully that's enough for me and Marc to play together and carry on scoring the goals that got them promoted last year."

Page was delighted to have got his man in the face of such competition for his signature and believes Revell will fit in perfectly in what he has planned in his first season in charge.

He said: "I think it's a fantastic signing. We said a couple of weeks ago we had to be patient.

"We did have targets in mind, but they've got to be right for the football club and I think he brings quality, I think he brings enthusiasm.

"The first meeting I had with him, I knew I had to bring him into the football club and be part of it.

"He's got that wealth of experience – he scored goals last season at Championship level, so to come to our level and join a club that's on the up and full of confidence is a great addition.

"As a centre half myself, I wouldn't want to play against both him and Rico. Certainly in that changing room he will give everyone a lift as well."

Wilkinson makes his return as Cobblers' assistant manager

Paul Wilkinson admitted the pull of being involved with first-team football again played a part in him accepting a chance to become Rob Page's assistant manager at Northampton Town.

Wilkinson, who finished his playing career at the Cobblers, has arrived after a couple of seasons coaching the under 21s at Norwich City and Barnsley, which followed a spell as right-hand man to Dave Jones at Sheffield Wednesday.

The former Everton, Watford and Middlesbrough striker is the latest arrival as Page's coaching staff continues to take shape, following the appointment of Paddy Kenny as the club's goalkeeping coach last week.

Wilkinson said: "Obviously it's a massive pull – everybody wants to be involved in first-team football and having been involved in first-team football for many years.

"Doing the under-21s for the last year or two was really good and I've really enjoyed it at Norwich and at Barnsley, but obviously getting back into a first-team structure was important to me at this moment in time.

"I'm really looking forward to it and having known Page for a long time I'm really looking forward to working with him and Paddy and [performance coach] John [Harbin] as well."

Page is keen for Northampton to really build on their fantastic championship-winning season and Wilkinson is the latest to say that the Cobblers should be aiming high in League One.

He said: "Our target is to do as well as possible. The important thing is to continue to build on the success of last year. I've been lucky enough to be around Barnsley in the last few months and the success that they've had and the way that they changed their season around from Christmas. I've seen a lot of League One football and a lot of the teams and obviously I'm coming to a club that's hungry to achieve."

When asked what he remembers about his previous spell with the Cobblers, Wilkinson said: "I had about 18 months here and I have a lot of things to look back on and I'm looking forward to the future now.

"I try not to think of it as being 18 years ago, but a lot of things have happened for me during the last 18 years and it's come to a decision where I've been able to make this move here now and I'm really looking forward to it."

Training wheels will be off for Hanley at Sixfields

New Northampton Town defender Raheem Hanley believes the time is right for him to 'play against men' as the 22-year-old looks to kick-start his senior career with the Cobblers.

Hanley played in the 2012 FA Youth Cup final with Blackburn Rovers, but left for Swansea City in January 2014 before he could break into the first team.

The left-back was to find his route to senior level blocked at the Liberty Stadium as well, despite being very highly thought of there, according to Northampton manager Rob Page.

Having gained plenty of experience at under-21 level, Hanley thinks he is now ready to make the step up as the Cobblers look to make an impression in League One next season.

Hanley said: "Them doing what they did in League Two last season, I thought it was a good way to carry on in League One and do the same thing, really. I've played a lot of under-21 games and I think it's time to try and showcase myself against men now."

Hanley became the fourth signing of the summer for Northampton on Tuesday after the earlier arrivals of Paddy Kenny, Alex Revell and fellow young full-back Aaron Phillips.

When asked how his move to the Cobblers came about, Hanley said: "Basically, I left Swansea at the end of the season and there was some interest from Northampton.

"It was definitely something I was interested in and wanted to pursue. I met Rob Page not so long ago, had a good chat with him and thought this would be the right place for me. Some of the stuff I talked about [with Page], I just thought he was the right person to get the best out of me, so he definitely played a big part."

Hanley will be competing at left-back with David Buchanan, who appeared in every match for the Cobblers last season and never seemed to have a bad game in what was his first year at Sixfields.

The former England U19 international hopes that each player will drive the other on this season, saying: "It's always good to have competition to get the best out of each other, so that's something I'm definitely going to try and do – to push him and hopefully he can push me."

KEEN TO IMPRESS: Defender Raheem Hanley

England look for perfect response

GRIPPED BY THE EUROS

BY TOM REED
sport@lincsmedia.co.uk

England go into today's home nations clash against Wales with a good chance of imposing themselves on Group B and erasing memories of conceding late versus Russia.

Beating Chris Coleman's Wales will be the perfect response to the unsettling violence surrounding England's opener in Marseille. Roy Hodgson's side showed plenty of promise in a bright showing against a turgid Russia outfit, only to be undone by a last-gasp Vasili Berezutski header.

While the foreign press focused on the positives of England's play, those closer to home bemoaned Hodgson's game management in the final third of the match.

The Three Lions' failure to score in open play is a concern, even though Eric Dier's beautifully worked free-kick opener was one to savour. Far too many balls into the box went begging and with Jamie Vardy twiddling his thumbs on the bench, the lack of a goal poacher became more apparent.

Despite agile wing work from Raheem Sterling and man-of-the-match Adam Lallana, England failed to test Russia's aging centre-back paring of Sergei Ignashevich and Berezutski with enough penalty-box snap shots.

Wayne Rooney put in a statistically good performance full of cute passing and was only denied a 70th minute side-footed goal by a Gordan Banks-esque save from Igor Akinfeev.

Yet this is tournament football and Rooney's shoe-horned inclusion can only be judged by wins.

That's why England can afford to drop Rooney versus Wales in favour of a second striker. With all eyes on Gareth Bale, Daniel Sturridge could be the player to put the Welsh Dragons to the sword in a balanced 4-4-2. Natural finisher Sturridge has had time to shake off any knocks and could add that touch of class against the Welsh.

The eye-catching Jack Wilshere should start alongside the workhorse Dier while Sterling and Lallana must be retained for their ball carrying ability.

This will likely be Hodgson's last tournament either way but a strong England showing might just convince the FA to give another contract to their veteran coach.

Northants ready to rumble in their T20 double header

CRICKET

BY CIARAN THOMAS
sport@lincsport.co.uk

Northamptonshire face back-to-back NatWest T20 Blast fixtures this week against Lancashire and Durham and head coach David Ripley is targeting a minimum of one win as his side look to maintain their momentum in the competition despite a crippling injury list.

The Steelbacks are second in the North Group having won three of their opening four games, but are missing several key men with Richard Levi, Rory Kleinveldt and Olly Stone all out injured, while Seekkuge Prasanna has joined up with the Sri Lanka ODI squad.

With further injury doubts over Adam Rossington and Rob Keogh ahead of the trip to Old Trafford on Thursday night, which is followed by a home clash with Durham 24 hours later, Ripley wants his team to hang in and ensure they remain in a strong position.

"You've got to try and get up for every game, they come thick and fast," Ripley said. "I'm taking the positives that we are playing some good cricket and if we continue that I'm sure we'll be a match for Lancashire on Thursday and I do think if we play at our best we can beat Durham at home."

"It's always a nice place to go and play, they've got plenty of good players, it's a good test, they're defending the trophy so it's nice to go and pit yourself against those guys."

"We've got a little injury concern over Adam Rossington, who had to come off with a finger injury and Rob Keogh also came off with a finger injury so we'll reassess those guys, see who's available and go from there."

"It's important we can get a win and we're really busting a gut to get a win in the two games, I think that is important otherwise that early momentum is lost a bit."

"It'd be nice to think we can win one with the

GOOD START: Northants have won three of their first four T20 matches injuries we've got and hopefully we'll get a few guys back by the time we play our next one."

"We know we've got the chance to finish the competition strong with Seekkuge coming back and hopefully we'll have other guys fit and well so we've just got to hang in and play the best we can."

Ripley is close to adding an overseas reinforcement to his squad, as he revealed the club are waiting for permission from a national board that would see an unnamed bowler join for a month as cover for Kleinveldt.

Moin Ashraf was also part of the squad for Tuesday's defeat to Yorkshire in the One-Day Cup and Ripley said the seamer will be in contention to make his debut this week.

"We're speaking to one of the cricket boards and we're waiting to see if we can get a no objection certificate from them that would allow someone to come for about a month, so we hope that's going to come off but we can't confirm on that."

"We only have six seam bowlers. If we've got two of those down we've only got four so we needed to do something to have some cover and as it is we'll see what Moin can bring."

"He's bowled very well at the death in the second team, bowled good Yorkers and has a history of being a good death bowler, so that's something worth us considering if we're going to make a change, but if we don't we still need the cover and it's nice to have Moin around."

Lyth onslaught puts Steelbacks to sword

Head coach David Ripley said Adam Lyth's 60-ball century proved the difference between Northants and Yorkshire at Scarborough on Tuesday as Lyth's 125 saw the hosts chase down an imposing target of 311.

Ben Duckett's (pictured) 121 had powered Northants to 310-7, and Ripley said he was pleased with his side's batting display, which might well have proved enough for victory until Lyth's onslaught.

Even after Lyth fell, Northants kept taking wickets, with David Willey eventually getting Yorkshire over the line against his old county with them eight wickets down, and Ripley was proud of his team's fight in defeat.

"We're disappointed because I thought our performance deserved better, the way we played over the game I thought we played very well," he said. "Stuck in on a dampish wicket in overcast conditions we had a very fine partnership between Alex [Wakely] and Ben that got us to a score I thought we played really well to get in those conditions."

"And then with Adam Lyth's innings, someone gets a hundred off 60 balls, that's going to make a dent in the run chase. It was a pretty fine effort and basically that was the difference, so credit to him."

"I thought we were on top at half time but his innings set Yorkshire up and from then on it was theirs to lose. We kept fighting and picking up wickets and even at the end, so really proud of how we fought against a strong Yorkshire side."

"It's better to be playing well than getting pumped and if we keep playing like that I'm sure we will win more games than we lose."

Holmes wants to leave Town

COBBLERS

Northampton Town confirmed yesterday that influential attacker Ricky Holmes has handed in a transfer request.

The Cobblers have rejected several offers for Holmes (pictured) and while the interested parties haven't been named, it appears the 28-year-old, who has a year left on his contract, has had his head turned.

Holmes' sensational form in the second half of last season played a huge part in Northampton's charge to promotion as they finished the campaign 13 points clear at the top of League Two. His campaign was disrupted until December due to a back injury, but once back he was one of the form players in the division, with several of his 11 goals of the spectacular variety.

While it was inevitable his performances would attract attention, Holmes had previously assured Northampton fans that they would be seeing him again this season.

In a club statement, Northampton chairman Kelvin Thomas said: "We have rejected offers because we don't want to lose Ricky, however his request is a bit of a game changer and we will continue discussions over the next few days with both Ricky and the club concerned.

"Both understand that if anything is going to happen then the club's valuation will need to be met."

Wood is Saints skipper

SAINTS

BY MATT WRIGHT
sport@isnmedia.co.uk

Flanker Tom Wood has been named as Northampton Saints' club captain for the 2016/17 season, as the club looks to bounce back from a campaign in which they feel they under-achieved.

Wood will take over the role from Lee Dickson, who had the armband for just one season after he himself inherited it from Dylan Hartley last autumn.

While his role is now a permanent one, Wood has led Saints onto the pitch on multiple occasions since signing from Worcester in 2010, most famously for the Premiership and European Challenge Cup finals in 2014.

The 29-year-old also captained England during their 2013 tour of Argentina and has long been a key figure with Northampton in terms of his leadership qualities.

Wood couldn't contain his pride, saying: "I'm hugely honoured to accept a role and I'm really looking forward to an exciting new challenge.

"On the field, I'll be doing much of the same. I don't think anything changes for me in the way I approach a game and commit to the club.

"I think a lot of it's going to be behind the scenes, tying in the non-[playing] 23 with the 23 and making sure that we're all on the same page, making sure the squad's united.

"I'll probably be more active with those kind of things, as far as leading the lads down the tunnel and giving everything on matchday and those things will be much the same, I imagine."

Wood admits he found it extremely tough to watch the end of the end knowing Northampton would not be taking part in the Premiership play-offs after they finished fifth in the table.

It was the first time they had finished outside the top four in Wood's spell at the club and it prompted a wide-ranging review into the campaign, which included a discussion of a change in captaincy.

Wood said: "Nothing was off-limits, really, from coaching down to playing. We just scrutinised the lot and went back to the drawing board a little bit. I was heavily involved in that as well as Dylan, Calum Clark, Lee Dickson and over a couple of chats with Jim [Mallinder] over a coffee, we just thrashed out details of what we were going to change up.

NEW LEADER: Tom Wood has led Northampton out on multiple occasions in the past few seasons

"One of the things he wanted to change was the captaincy and it wasn't so straightforward as elation and bite his hand off - there was some trepidation and thinking that I need to do it justice.

"I need to know that 100 per cent believe in what we're doing and where the club's going. On the back of this review and the decisions we've made I feel like I'm in that place to do that now."

Northampton's director of rugby Jim Mallinder believes Wood is just the man to assume the captaincy, saying: "Tom has long been part of a strong group of leaders at the club and we believe he has all the credentials to be an outstanding captain for Northampton Saints."

"We've seen in the past that he always leads by example, both on the field with his unbelievable work rate and passion, as well as off it with his wholehearted approach to everything he does.

"His past experiences in the role for both club and country made him the overwhelming choice.

"He takes over from Lee, who put his all into the role last season and will continue to play a big part on the field."
